Aim of the program

Today most managers practise project management in one form or another. Project teams are replacing middle managers as organisations 'down-size' or flatten their organisational hierarchy, and more and more work is being measured by outcomes that meet quality, time or cost guidelines.

This course aims to provide you with the skills and knowledge to plan and manage projects that achieve objectives important to you and your organisation – regardless of its size or type of activity. At the successful completion of this course you will have:

- a working knowledge of project management, including an understanding of project planning and control procedures, resource management, and risk analysis as they apply to projects, and
- an understanding of the methods, techniques and tools available to help you manage more effectively the projects you are, or will be, involved in.

Learning outcomes

On completion of the program you should be able to:

- Develop effective integrated project management plans to meet the delivery requirements and expectations of project customers and stakeholders.
- Use governance, risk and communications mechanisms linked with the plans for the day-to-day monitoring and effective control of projects to meet objectives, and the ultimate realisation of benefits.
- Provide quality deliverables, with the ability to meet reporting requirements on demand, and ultimately provide customer satisfaction.
- Select appropriate tools and techniques to support monitoring and control mechanisms, and continuous improvement.
- Assign, develop and lead project teams to achieve optimal performance and outstanding, sustainable results.
